MSSI Membership FAQs

What does being a member of Medical Students for Size Inclusivity (MSSI) entail?

We are an interscholastic team of medical students, working to raise awareness about weight bias in the medical field, with a focus at change at the medical school level. Broadly, we have several committees, each focused on a particular aspect of our work. They include: research, social media, curriculum, advocacy, and networking. We encourage you to check out our website for more information regarding specific initiatives. As an organization, we are new and growing, so there is also a lot of flexibility for members to explore their own interests and create new avenues within MSSI to expand its impact.

What type of work are you doing? What types of things could I get involved in?

Currently, we are conducting a thorough literature review to consolidate resources and systematically organize the material. We will eventually use these articles as support for an anti-weight-bias curricular guide to be distributed to medical educators across the countries.

In the meantime, we will continue to host speaker events and create educational content for current medical students, to learn about weight bias in medicine. We also create resources and support our own members as they advocate for this work at their respective medical schools.

We have an active presence on social media (Instagram, FB, Twitter) to raise awareness about our cause and to connect with others who may be interested. We are actively connecting with professionals within the field to learn and assess other community needs.

In the near future, we hope to expand our capacity to advocate for patients currently impacted by weight bias in healthcare. This could include fundraising for size-inclusive medical equipment and furniture, participating in policy reform, and reaching out to PCP offices on behalf of patients looking for size-inclusive physicians.

How much time will I have to commit?

It depends! We recognize that we are all medical students first, and all have the responsibilities and commitments related to that role. With that, we are very flexible with time commitment, and do not have minimal requirements. We want anyone who would like to be involved to have the opportunity to! All we ask is that all members are honest and forward about their availability, so that the team can plan projects and accommodate accordingly.

We do have several different options for our members, depending on their interest and availability (also see MSSI organization graphic below):

General member: No assigned committee. Volunteers to assist with tasks / projects within MSSSI based on personal interest and availability. Receives notification of all MSSSI events and initiatives, and committee requests for volunteers.

Committee chair: Participates on a committee and has specific tasks/roles within the team. Attends committee meetings. Assists with large-scale MSSSI events. Provides input about future directions of the committee.

Director/Leadership: Determines direction of their committee and plans initiatives for their team. Oversees the work of chairs and assists as needed. Attends committee meetings and MSSSI leadership meetings. Participates in determining future directions for MSSSI. Attends Advisory Council meetings as needed.

Do I need to have prior knowledge or experience about weight-inclusive healthcare?

Not at all! We at MSSSI are willing and eager to work with anyone who is willing to learn! Even those without much experience can contribute greatly to our work - for example, we are always looking for individuals to help review research articles and pull out relevant data. We also welcome students with interests in graphic design and/or multimedia content creation.

Can I start a chapter at my medical school?

Yes, we are happy to work with students to expand this work to new medical schools! MSSSI provides support and resources to members of our group who already lead mission aligned clubs/organizations, and can help students to start a chapter of MSSSI at their school. Becoming a part of MSSSI is a great way for leaders to connect with other student leaders who may be engaging in similar work at their schools, and exchange ideas and support. Read more here.

I am already part of another group that is involved in this work - can I still join?

Absolutely! We love to find ways to collaborate, and/or bring members to our team that have done similar work in other spaces.

I am a healthcare/allied profession student, not a medical student, can I still join?

Yes! Please fill out the same membership interest form, and a member of our team will reach out to find out more about your roles and interests. We hope to expand MSSSI's impact by incorporating students across other healthcare professions into our work.

I am a practicing physician or other professional, can I still be a member of MSSSI?

Yes! Please see the Professionals interest form on our Professionals page.

I don't want to become a member, but I would like to be informed of upcoming events.

Signing up for our periodic Newsletter is a great way to stay informed of MSSSI's progress and future events!

My question was not answered. Apologies! Fill out our contact form or email us at sizeinclusivemedicine@gmail.com

MSSI Organizational Structure:

The Advisory Council consists of experts within various fields who oversee and provide feedback to our team, and to ensure there are valid bases for all our initiatives. Advisors will meet with our leadership once a quarter, answer questions periodically via email, and provide guidance for specific events falling in their area of expertise.
